

Speaker Unruh: He Defies Laws of Political Gravity

By EDWIN S. CAPPS
Capitol News Service
SACRAMENTO — When Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Inglewood) is re-elected to his important position as head of the lower house of the legislature next January, as expected, he will be defying the laws of political gravity.

For, on Sept. 30, which also was Unruh's birthday, he had served longer in the office of speaker than any other legislator in California history.

It was on Sept. 30, 1961, that a special caucus of the assembly was held, the only such meeting ever held by the assembly. The purpose was to elect Unruh the speaker, to succeed the late Ralph M. Brown, who had taken an appointment to the appellate court in Fresno.

SINCE THEN, Unruh has been re-elected speaker at all regular and special sessions, numbering well over a dozen. Since his birthday in 1961, Unruh has seen the Democratic majority in the assembly drop until now it is only 42 to 38.

Unruh perhaps is the most noted and astute politician in either party in California, and has been for a number of years. He always has said that his stock in trade is to "have what the other guy wants." In many cases this has been money.

Some time ago, the speaker devised the plan to hold huge fund-raising dinners. The tab is $100 a plate and guests are entertained by some of Hollywood's foremost. The take at a couple of these affairs has topped the $250,000 figure.

UNRUH THEN has been in the position of apportioning this largesse out to fellow assemblymen during reelection campaigns—strangely enough, to members of both parties.

About a year and a half ago, Unruh found himself in the envied position for a politician. He was rumored to be running for the state senate, and later for governor, for the governorship itself, or for running for reelection to the assembly. Not a day went by but what some reporter asked him which way he would jump. The speaker played it close to his vest and eventually wound up running for reelection to his assembly seat.

Unruh always has adopted the policy of "staying loose at the plate" in order that he could "swing at anything that came along." This has been apparent in his posture during the past six years.

UNRUH WARNED the Democrats in 1964, Governor Edmund G. Brown in particular, that they should not move too far in the field of civil rights until the people had a chance to catch up with them. His advice was unheeded and the Rumford Housing Act was enacted, causing turmoil which still has not ended.

During the final year or so of the Brown reign, Unruh more often than not was working with Republicans on legislative programs, some of which were not what the governor had ordered. This year, under Governor Ronald Reagan, Unruh more often than not was working with the same Republicans.

This is not to indicate that Unruh was not critical of Reagan, even though he admitted it was dangerous to oppose a man whom the public opinion polls showed was doing so well.

IN HIS OFFICE of speaker, Unruh has ranged from tough to genial. By strict dieting several years ago he trimmed 70 pounds from his frame and pretty well rid himself of the "Big Daddy" image, as well as his nickname. In 1963, he locked the assembly up for one night over a vote but since has softened and admits he wished he had been a bit more temperate at the time.

What's the future for Unruh as he begins his seventh year in the office many consider the second most powerful in California?

On answer is simple. Should the Republicans pick up three or more new seats in the assembly in 1968, they surely would elect a GOP speaker in 1969.

During 1968, however, there are signs that Unruh's long working agreement with Senator Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, who has been present pro tempore of the senate for 10 years, will not be in effect. There are reports Burns is miffed at Unruh's handling of several pieces of legislation during 1967, including an attempt to modify the Rumford Housing Act.

IN ADDITION, Unruh incurred the disfavor of Burns and other veteran senators this past year in his handling of Reagan's tax legislation and the fact that he was on the floor of the senate on several occasions. His former chief lieutenant, Larry Margolis, after serving one year as a professor at Stanford University, now is in the midwest, heading up a legislative speaker's bureau. This organization reportedly is well-financed and could provide a good income for anyone interested in pursuing the cause of upgrading state legislatures throughout the country.

But even though Unruh defies the statistics when he begins the 1968 session of the legislature as speaker of the assembly, no one has the temerity to forecast the end of his reign or his political future. For, long about February, it's likely the lights will be shining at the Hollywood Paladium, in observance of another well-attended Unruh testimonial dinner.

And once again, Unruh will have what the other politicians need — money.

Ombudsman Plan Eyed By Speaker

Capitol News Service
SACRAMENTO—Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, a man who doesn't give up easily, has told a group at Columbia University he again will introduce legislation to create the office of Ombudsman in California.

The Ombudsman would handle complaints from the public. Bills have been introduced in the legislature during the past two sessions but didn't get off the ground. Some legislators feel it is their job and political bread and butter to service complaints from their constituents.

"Obviously, the legislator who wants to find solutions and enact the laws implementing these solutions (to problems) will have less time for casework," Unruh said.

Gas Company Employees Renew Pledges to AID

Contribution pledges to the AID-United Givers 1967-68 campaign were received from 94.9 per cent of the employees in the Southern California Gas Co. Southwest Division, S. W. Lynch, division manager said today.

Lynch said the division's pledges were up from 86.5 per cent in last year's drive.

Through the annual campaign, employees who sign up pledge 12 or more minutes of pay a week to the "fair share" plan of supporting community health and welfare agencies.

EMPLOYEES sign-ups throughout the gas company system—which stretches from Fresno County on the north to El Centro on the south—this year were 90.1 per cent, up from 88.3 per cent last year.

Some 85 per cent of the pledges this year were on a year-to-year continuing basis. Last year 74 per cent were on the continuing plan.

Auto Arson Cases Told To Police

The third case of automobile arson within a week has been reported to Torrance police.

Witnesses reported that an unidentified man threw a lighted package into the back seat of a car belonging to William M. Danner, 2714 Framery St. The incident occurred about 2 a.m. Thursday when barking dogs awakened neighbors.

About $100 worth of fire damage was done to the car, which was unlocked at the time.

IN ADDITION the gas company's corporate gift to United Crusade's Southwest and Harbor areas totals $21,748. It is part of an overall corporate gift of $131,350 to health and welfare agencies in the various areas served by the investor-owned utility. Agencies benefiting from the AID campaign include American Cancer Society, American National Red Cross, Arthritis Foundation, Braille Institute, City of Hope, John Tracy Clinic, Multiple Sclerosis Society, United Cerebral Palsy Association, United Way-United Fund-Community Chest, YMCA and many others.

CONGRATULATIONS... Dr. Warren H. Low, a local optometrist prominent in civic and community affairs, congratulates Robert Durrell, manager of Beverly Hills Federal Savings Rolling Hills Plaza office, on the successful opening of the new office. Dr. Low was one of the first area residents to open an account at the new office.
